One out of eight women will face a breast cancer diagnosis at some point in her lifetime. With early diagnosis and advanced treatment options, their prognosis is remarkably good. For those women who can’t afford basic health services, like mammograms, the outlook is a lot less optimistic.

On Thursday, October 25, 2012 from 6:30—9:00 p.m. approximately 200 women will gather to help celebrate our sixth annual Think Pink event. Organized by our local Breast Cancer Support Group, this fundraising event offers women the unique opportunity to have fun, be pampered, and entertained while also gaining valuable information about the detection and prevention of breast cancer.

The evening will also include presentations by local women who have been touched by breast cancer, as well as an inspiring keynote presentation. All proceeds raised by Think Pink will be used to provide needed mammograms and/or diagnostic screenings for uninsured women in our own communities who cannot afford them. Only through the generous support of our sponsors are we able to rally together to raise awareness, funding and prevention in the local fight against breast cancer.

Please review the attached information to learn more about our program and the benefits of sponsorship. Should you have any questions, I would be happy to talk with you personally.
